

New Structures for New Land Administration Technologies

Gerda SCHENNACH, Austria

Key words: Access to land, Cadastre, Digital cadastre, Education, e-Governance, Land management

SUMMARY

New technologies which have been developed since the last ten years require new structures in land management, as well for the private as for the public sector. Land registration needs to be re-engineered, processes for registration and maintenance and most of all delivery of content to the end user are a challenge for the profession all over the world.
